We are glad to call attention to the following suggestive criticism of a work of art by a distinguished American sculptor. In Mr. Story's studio we found—beside how much else that fascinated un!—three statues, all of which should be in America: "Margaret," "Hero," and

"Cleopatra."

Under any general rule (that I will not "describe the indescribable"), I say nothing of the "Margaret" nor the "Hero"—two forms of grief, difering from each other, and with different approaches to despair. Without describing the "Cleopatra," however, I must speak of her. It is true that Mr. Hawthorne has done so, a great deal better than I can do; but I must add a word here, in the expression of my very carnest wish that this statue may be ordered for some position in Moston. Till I saw it, I was dissatisfied with the work of the modern sculptors, almost without exception. If they could do nothing better than reproduce the antique mythology for me, I had a great deal rather have the classical representations of the antique than their reproductions. Let me have the marvels of the Vatican copied with their old names, intelest of having them copied with new names. If the nine-teenth century has nothing else to say than P. Anxiless said, or Phidnas, let us have the remarks of Phidnas undigested and unabridged. I always hated abridgments, and distrusted translations. I had rather read Theoeritus's "Eclogues" than Gay's; and so I had rather see the "Fami" of Praxiteles than Canova's "Venna." All this I said, steadily, of all the modern sculpture that I saw till I came to Mr. Story's study. I say it still. But there I was willing to own—and most glad, indeed, to own—that the indisteent hectury has the shillity to create a fine art of its own in sculpture, with methods of its own for purposes of its own. There is no need of comparing these with the antique: we do not comply on the comparison, one can say (and how gladly one does say it it): "Here is a work which belongs to out time—to our conception of history, to our conception of character, to what we know of the unfolding of history and of character, and it is a study wholly different, in its detail and in its resul, from what the study of the Grecian schools, or of any schools but those of the further which is so short for her, as only Cleopatra as it world; and of each of these world have seen as trees till now. And now will Octavius kneel, perhaps, where they have knelt? He pretends he will, but that is nothing. You see all that is over, as you look upon the statue. All is over with which she ever had anyting to do; and she knows it all over. Yet she must look back upon it all, and forward too.

So she sits there; not a pretty girl, with a girl's form and features, but a woman—who has done all this and been all this—with a woman's figure and a woman's beauty. And do you remember, my friend fond of history—as you look, do you remember—that she is an African woman? The little jet of Greek blood, which Ptolemy brought into this dynasty three centuries ago, is only the smallest fraction of this Egyptian's life—not the hundredth part of it, nor the two-hundredth part. A line of Egyptian mothers for ten generations have made her wholly Egyptian—in this raving hot blood of hers; in this passionate temper; and in the whole quality even, of her mind. It was no pretty Greek beauty that worked such have with such men as those. You are looking, my dear friend, or an African Queen—the first since Sesostris to hold So she sits there; not a pretty girl, with a girl's on an African Queen—the first since Sesostris to hold sway over the conquered heroes of Europe; and her sway is broken now, and Europe is thundering at the gates of her citadel. You have the same old store of gates of her citadel. You have the same old story of Africa—always outwitted by Asia, always outfought by Europe—as you look on this despair.

by Europe—as you look on this despair.

Do you know, again, just why the story of that despair is not written in your Bible? Do you know why you did not read it at your mother's knee? Do you know that Cleopatra, who wanted to be Empress of the world, had wanted first to reign at Jerusalem, and be Queen of Judah? When in her heyday, she and Herod met—Herod the Great; and, so far as a sellish brute like him could love a woman, he fell in love with her. She, who was to be Antony's mistress, tooled Herod for a while; and what did she want of him? What did she ask Antony for, just afterward? Only the they little recycle (what did he care for it?) of rooled Herod for a white; and what did she want of him? What did she ask Antony for, just afterward? Only for that little province (what did he care for it?) of Judah. If he would only let her "annex" to Egypt the land which the Egypt and had not held since the days of Rehoboam? Egypt and Judah have been strangely tied sometimes, and strangely parted; might they not be tied again? Who shall say why Antony said "No?" He did say "No;" Herod remained King of Judah till the Child was born! Her contribution to that Child's history is not written, therefore, in the history of Jerusalew. She and hers, end the Old: the history of Jerusalen She and hers end the Old they do not begin the New. When she puts the asy apon her breast, the world will be at peace:

"No war or battle-sound Is heard the world around."

Octavius marches through Jerusalem, as he returns successful from Egypt; and Jerusalem, coming out to welcome him, is the first city that salutes him as master

Then is it that he shuts the gates of Janus; and then is it, because Antony and Cleopatra are dead, that The Preparation is ended. The New World may begin. The chariot-wheels of Rome have smoothed the high-

Preparation is ended. The New World may begin.

The chariot-wheels of Rome have smoothed the highway for the world's Lord."

This is the Cleopatra whom Mr. Story shows to us, after all is really over, but before the last moment comes. He represents, as I have said, not a girl, but a woman, with a woman's beauty and a woman's form.
Again: she is not a Greek, but an Egyptian; and, if you will consent that Egypt shall typify Africa for you, you may make this the symbol of Africa's despair.
Again: she is not draped by mere lay-figure study, or search for eddity or the picturesque, but after careful analytis of those grotesque designs which the tombs
of Beni Hassan and all the Egyptian musmmy cases and scalptares torment us with, and which, till an artist explains them for you, seem inexplicable. Here they are simple, elegant, and beautiful. Of this statue
I have said that it is not an antique, nor in the style of an antique. It rather shows the way in which our time can regard history. The contemporaries of Cleopatra could not have made this statue. To take merely the points I have alluded to. They did not know that the fall of Cleopatra was the critical historical type of the fall of all old dynasties. They did not know that, in the peace which then began, the Prince of Peace
was to be born. And these are but external facts.
The whole temper of antiquity had in it so much of her own despair, that they could not appreciate it as we do. The best of them had so little to look forward to that they could not mark her failure, her consciousness of failure, and her question of what could follow such wreek, as we can. Nay, as to that, we have so little shaken off what heathenism there is clinging round us that we do but begin to appreciate now the littleness
of kingdoms which rely on battles and fects and emperors and diplomacies for their victories. Yet this "Cleopatra," as she broods there, thinks of that also.
Nor has says age till ours considered this constant tragedy of Africa—slave either of Asia's wisdom or

The tone of Mr. Hale's pleasant volume is generally that of friendly confidence, and his descriptions and remarks win upon the interest of the reader no less by the sympathy which they

TUESDAY, Feb. 26-P. M. The speculative movement in Stocks which took shape yesterday continues to increase in volume and vigor. The rise of yesterday brought in new buyers to-day from parties who have been waiting for the tide to turn, and the sales of the day have been very large. At the opening of the first session the market was well sustained at a general advance on yesterday's prices, but toward the close the movement was tame, and quotations in some cases were a trifle lower. Central opened at 782, against 782 yesterday, with larger than usual sales of cash stock. The business of February, we hear unofficially, is quite favorable. In Erie the transactions were to moderate extent, but the market was very firm. The advertisement of the Receiver, of his readiness to pay off the unextended Second Mortgage Bonds, had a favorable influence. Hudson River was also very firm, and sold up to 46. In the Western shares there was an active business. The most important advance was in Illinois Central, which went to 821, against 81 yesterday. Between the Boards there were no transactions of importance, but the market recovered firmness. . At the Second Board there was a large activity, and great buoyancy in the prominent fancies, under the telegraphic advices of the action in the Peace Convention at Washington. The street operators jumped to the conclusion that the disturbing questions before that Convention had been all harmoniously settled, and rushed in to buy eagerly, drawing in the shorts with them. Two or three of the leading bears of the last few days were prominent buyers toward the close of the day. The commission-houses, also, had larger orders, and altogether the market looked like a rising one for some days, unless we get a set-back from the South. Central went to 793, a further improvement of | per cent, but closed at 791. Erie was very firm, 331 being bid at the close. Pacific Mail was 86. There were rumors in the street that the dividend of 10 per cent on the 1st of May is not certain. Reading advanced suddenly to 471 from 451 in the morning. The purchases are said to be predicated upon the passage of the tariff bill. The market for Western shares was very firm, and in most cases an advance of the morning prices established. The business in State Stocks was not large but the market was strong. There was a better demand for Railroad bonds, and we have no doubt that the promise of the traffic for the present year on the Western roads will induce an active speculation in the bonds of those companies if our political troubles are arranged. In Government Stocks there was not much done, but the rates are well sustained The market at the close was scarcely so firm as it had been. The last prices were: United States 5s, 1874, 87 @88; Tennessee 6s, 741 @75; Virginia 6s, 761 @ 76]; Missouri 6s, 67 267; Canton Company, 14 2 15; Pacific Mail, 851 286; New-York Central Railroad, 79 2794; Erie Railroad, 33 233; Hudson River Railroad, 46 2464; Harlem Railroad, 16 2164; Harlem Preferred, 401@41; Reading Railroad, 471@471; Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Railroad, 151 @157; Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Railroad, Guaranteed, 331 2331; Panama Railroad, 115 & 1151: Illinois Central Railroad, 84 @84; Galens and Chicago Railroad, 731@731; Cleveland and Toledo Railroad, 351@36; Chicago and Rock Island Railroad, 591@60; Chicago, Burlington, and Quiney Railroad, 73 2734; Illinois Central, 96 2974.

The business of the Clearing-House was $18,856, 860. The demand for Treasury Notes is active, and they are sold to pay about 9 P cent to the taker. The 12 P cents are in demand at 103. The low interest notes for Custom-House purposes sell at \(i \sigma \) \(i \) cent discount. The large profit yielded by the new loan to the takers at 90 15-100 has brought in free sellers, and although the investment demand has been good, it has not been sufficient, and the current rate of yesterday has not been sustained. Some sales were made in the morning at 1037, but at the close the stock was freely offered at 103. If the favorable rumors from Washington should be confirmed, the market will doubtless advance again.

Mr. Dix, we understand, will draw his warrants promptly against the proceeds of this loan, and expects to leave the new Administration about a million of dollars in the Treasury to commence business upon.

The steamship Adriatic, the sale of which we noticed a few days since to the Galway Company, was sold for £87,000, about $430,000. The ship was bought by the North Atlantic Steamship Company for $400,000. She is advertised to sail on the 9th proximo for Havre, touching at Southampton.

It will be seen by a paragraph in another column that there is great activity in the trade between this city and the South just now, in consequence of the imposition of a duty on all goods coming from the North into the Southern Confederacy after the 4th of

There is a larger activity in the money market, in consequence of the payment into the Sub-Treasury on the new loan; but the supply is abundant at 5 27 ? cent, mostly at 6 V cent, on favorite securities. In the discount houses there is not much doing, as the banks absorb nearly all the "gilt-edged" paper made. The new commercial transactions being entered into are so limited that the banks find it very difficult to sustain their loan lines with such paper as they require. We presume the loans of the banks, in the shape of regular discounts, have not been for a long time so low as now. The aggregate of loans is largely swelled by loans on and purchases of Government securities. Leading short acceptances go at 628 V cent, and prominent single-name paper at 7 @9 P cent.

The Dry Goods auction sales were well attended to-day. Messrs. Wilmerdings & Mount sold 600 cases of wide, brown and bleached domestic sheetings, and 150 cases of corset jeans, by order of Messrs. Parker, Wilder & Co. of Boston. There was a large attendance of first-class buyers and of commission merchants. The prices obtained were good under the circumstances, and more goods could have been sold at the same rates, but they paid no profit to the manufacturer. Wilmerdings, Hoguet & Humbert sold 1,000 cases of German cotton hosiery in small lots. The prices obtained were not satisfactory to the owners.

At Philadelphia Exchange rates rule much the same as for a fortnight past. Philadelphia is now a creditor city all round. New-York is debtor, probably, threequarters of a million of dollars, and Baltimore an amount correspondingly large.

The New-Orleans	Picayune	of Thursd	ay evening

Since our last weekly summary the Money market has shown further symptoms of improvement, and negotiations of strictly A I paper are made with greater facility than before. The range of such securities, as already remarked, is very narrow. Eusiness opened briskly this morning, and the transactions in Cotton promised to attain a large amount. This tendency was subsequently checked by the receipt of later advices from Europe reporting a declining market in Liverpool. After the news became known operations were surrested.

Foreign Exchange has taken a decided start this week, and the rate generally are labely exchange that this week, and therefore you are sufficiently all the sale of the sale with a fair business at these rates. A fraction more has been paid in one or two instances, but merely for specific remittances. Drafts with Bill of Ladiug have been calling all the way from 1000 2102. In France the transactions have been large at of 301 205. 50, and 55, 45 for very prime names. The whole run may be quoted from 55, 66 for very prime names. THE REGRADING OF FLATBUSH AVENUE.—The work of regrading Flatbush avenue and intersecting streets, which has been so long delayed, bids fair now to be commenced within a few weeks' time. The upper part of the avenue was to down eleven feet about two years since. This leves the cross streets high above the grade, and has been the cause of several accidents. That part of the avenue between fifth and Atlantic areanes is so low that the drainage of the neighboring high animo areanes is so low that the drainage of the neighboring high ground accumulates from every rain or thaw, making it almost impassable for pedestrians. The contracts to elevate this part of the avenue and intersecting streets, and to cut down some of the streets on the hill, have been awarded to three different parties who will commence operations as soon as the season permits.

The quarterly bill for post-mortem examinations in Coroners' cases was reported. In the debate that ensned it came out that last year more than $2,000 was paid for such service, much of which was useless, except as a means of educating certain medical students. In reference to these facts, Mr. Weismann offered a resolution that the Committee on County Offices take into consideration the propriety of appointing two sur-geons to attend to all ante and post-mortem examinaons required in Coroners' cases. Adopted. A report in favor of paying a bill of $16 of Chas. C. Commer ford for chairs, and A. T. Stewart $38 40 for furnishing the House of Detention with blankets, &c., was lost, because the proper requisition had not been made for the articles. Adjourned to Thursday at 3 p. m.

A fire broke out at 34 o clock a. m. Tuesday in the restaurant and lager beer saloon kept by A. Pinars, corner of Second street and Third avenue. It appears that two Germans lodging in the house came home at 34 o clock, much under the influence of liquor, and while proceeding to Eight a lamp set fire to a quantity of loose paper about the premises. Damage to the amount of $50 was sustained. Insured for $1,000 in the New-Amsterdam Insurance Company.

CITY ITEMS.

BULL's HEAD .- New-York Cattle Market, Tuesday Feb. 26.—At last we are able to report one cattle pari es that gives almost universal satisfaction to the drovens. It is so much better than they have been of late access. toped to, and so much better than was generally expected, that the drovers are generally jolly. It is altogether the best market they have met with in many weeks, yet not a very high one, the prices ranging from 7 to 9 cents net a pound for the bulk of the cattle, 9 cents for very good ones, and 10 cents for extras, with a much more liberal disposition on the part of buyers in estimating weights, so that the market is fairly half/secent net a pound better for sellers than it was this day. week, with a fair prospect of the prices holding out to the close, as the number on sale to-day is only about 2,600 head, and we cannot learn that any considerable additions will be made to-morrow, certainly not enough to make up 3,000 head; and as the sales at Bergen and the down-town stables during the week have not been large, the weekly supply will prove so light that it will give the butchers an opportunity to work off all the stock on hand, and be ready to absorb about 4,000 head. next Tursday and Wednesday, without any falling of from prices current to-day. Should the supply next week prove no larger than to-day, we anticipate another advance equal to that of this market as compared with last week. The quality of the stock to day is only average fair; there is not as large a proportion of first-class bullocks as there was last week, but as many as will sell at the advance, as butchers are generally content to risk the chances, well knowing that a full supply will bring the price down again as low as it has been in any of the past weeks.

The weather to-day is extremely favorable, being just comfortably cool, and the yards, for once, quite free of mud. The trade of the morning was quite brisk, until the first-class butchers had made their purchases, then it slacked off, and continued only moderate through the day, and will close probably at dusk with only half the stock sold, as owners are holding pretty stiff for the advance, and the wholesale butchers preferring to trust to their chances to-morrow, rather than pay the prices to-day.

The market closes with a decided good feeling on the part of owners and their brokers.

Union Bange,-Mr. Agron Cox, manufacturing jeweler of Jersey City, has produced a neat Union scars pin, representing the fasces, surmounted by the national shield, with the United States flag on each side. A specimen which he forwarded to Mr. Lincoln received his approval.

ENORMOUS FREIGHTS FOR CHARLESTON .- A singular practical comment on the benefit South Carolina is likely to gain by severing her connection with the Union, and forming one of the "Confederate States," is furnished in the scene presented on Tuesday in. West street, in the vicinity of Pier No. 1, belonging to the Charleston line of steamers. being hoisted into the Columbia as fast as possess are hoisted into the Columbia as fast as posses and are unloading upon the wharf, and from Pier No. 4 Pier No. 11 the street is completely blocked up with drays loaded with various kinds of merchandise waiting for that vessel. Sugar and drygoods, however, exceed everything else. "If we had three ships we could load them," said one of the men in charge of the goods. heretofore, the steamers have taken bundles of hay to make out a freight.

This unusual state of things is accounted for by the passage on the 18th, by the Congress of the Confederate States of the South, of an act declaring a tariff of duty on goods imported into the new republic on and after the 4th of March proximo. The following is a copy of dopted by this Cobgress.

HOWELL COBB, President of the Congress.

J. J. Hoopen, Secretary.

Passed February 18, 1861.

In regard to the construction of the revenue laws.

Collector Colcock, of Charleston, has received the folowing from the Hon. C. G. Memminger, Secretary of the Treasury of the Confederate States:

"Goods imported from any of the United States not in thise Confederacy, are exempt from duty, without relation to the times of import, if it is goods were really purchased on or before the 38th February, 1361."

The Columbia left on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clocks.

and at noon it was said at the dock that wet freights were refused. At the office of the Company, we learn that the Marion will go out on Thursday, so that her freights will come within the provisions of the construction put upon the act by the Secretary of the Treaury of the eceded States.

ROMEO AND JULIET AT THE STADT THEATER .- W. Schlegel's translation of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet was given at the Stadt Theater on Monday night, to a full house. Mr. Otto Hoym and Mrs. Becker Grahn, in the little rôles, which they sustained with marked ability. Mr. Hoym is an actor of merit, with a please ing voice and good stage presence. His conception and rendition of Romeo was fully equal and in many points superior to the majority of the English repre-sentations of the character. Mrs. Grahn's Juliet was also a finished and creditable performance. The Mer-cutio of Mr. Meanbert and Friar Lawrence of Mr. Kuorr deserve favorable mention. The rest of the characters were acceptably rendered, and the scenery and costumes were generally good and appropriate. Our German citizens have reason to be proud of their theater, since in artistic excellence and managerial ability it compares favorably with English establish-
